EWU’s computer science program at the University of Washington, which is huge... - Steve Simmons, computer science professor, on retiring professor Ray Hamel

His name is on the college's honor roll: Ray Hamel. Simmons was a professor for EWU since 1965, started the computer science department. Simmons said, "I would not have my name here if it wasn't for Ray Hamel, who set up the department..." Hamel was a long-time computer science professor, who taught students taught by Ray Hamel.

The system is currently open for full-time students and $3.50 for part-time students. Examples of proposals that were made in the past include the PUB computer lab, the Mars computer lab, the laptop check out service, and the software distribution system like Patterson, free antivirus software, and software from Microsoft.

Certain sections are higher than others, he said, based on the willingness of the students to pay for the technology. Certain students may have to pay more than others, but the overall system is weighted to include the maximum number of students in the student body.

The committee also noted that software was installed on the computer science, and there were four things to consider: the timeline for the federal assessment of the situation has not yet been determined. The committee encourages the students to submit their proposals on time.

The system is currently open for full-time students and $3.50 for part-time students. Examples of proposals that were made in the past include the PUB computer lab, the Mars computer lab, the laptop check out service, and the software distribution system like Patterson, free antivirus software, and software from Microsoft.

Certain sections are higher than others, he said, based on the willingness of the students to pay for the technology. Certain students may have to pay more than others, but the overall system is weighted to include the maximum number of students in the student body.

The committee also noted that software was installed on the computer science, and there were four things to consider: the timeline for the federal assessment of the situation has not yet been determined. The committee encourages the students to submit their proposals on time.
The idea of doing “green dots” to reduce green-based personal violence (vandalism, sexual or partner violence) is growing on the EWU campus. As a reminder, “green dots” are small stickers that you can put on your personal items or in your dorm rooms, and can be easily transferred from one person to the next. EWU students are beginning to put these stickers on their belongings, and this has led to some interesting questions and concerns. One student was found with a backpack inside a rec center locker, a student returned to find it empty, and another student was caught attempting to steal a book from the Library. The EWU Police have been working with students to ensure that these stickers are being used appropriately and not taken out of context.

10/2 1:18 p.m. - EWU Police responded to a call stating that a ROTC vehicle had gas siphorned. The hose was still in the gas tank and had to be cut off. There were no suspects.

Accuracy check
If you want mistakes in your paper, contact our news editor by e-mail at easternernews@gmail.com.
The first phase of the Patterson remodel started in 2009 and the second phase will begin in 2011. There is going to be a complete renovation of the classroom space with new, high-quality furniture and technology. The new classroom will be equipped with state-of-the-art technology, including flat-screen televisions and interactive whiteboards. The new classroom will be designed to enhance student engagement and facilitate collaborative learning.

PATTERSON
When Patterson University opened its doors in 1893, the building will have new seats of the arts and sciences.

The interior and exterior of the building have been completely renovated and will reflect the quality of the education that is provided within the building," said.
After a week on campus and studying with my classmates, I feel that the courses and professors are challenging and interesting. I believe that the university has a strong academic community and provides many opportunities for students to engage in extracurricular activities. I also appreciate the campus facilities, which include a beautiful library, classrooms, and athletic facilities.

As a first-year student, I am looking forward to the future and hope to participate in various activities on campus. I believe that the university has a supportive environment and provides resources for students to succeed academically and personally. I am excited to be a part of this vibrant community and look forward to the many opportunities that the university has to offer.

Overall, I am very happy with my decision to attend the university and believe that it was the right choice for me. I am grateful for the support and guidance I have received so far and am looking forward to what the future holds.

---

The author thanks...
Reflecting on the year 2009, The Easterner takes a look at some of the more important aspects of the previous year. Ranging from sports to sicknesses, last year was a busy one on all fronts for the university.
Hacking could have easily been avoided

By Nicole Erickson

Before the break, I contacted our ASEWU president and vice president to review whether it’s worth the risk of putting a student’s financial stability of its customers at risk. Even in the commercial world, where security is of extremely high value, there can be security failures. This isn’t the first time I have run into a problem like this with the ASEWU. Phone calls and delete our e-mails, I have yet to see this happen.

We encourage the submission of the Co-Chief Copy Editor, Michael Deyo, at michael.deyo@gmail.com.

The Easterner reserve the privilege to edit and reject any editorial or letter submitted for publication. All letters are subject to editing. Letters shorter than 100 words will not be considered. We do not publish anonymous letters. Letters longer than 250 words may be edited for space considerations. Respond to the following Wednesdays.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

If the frying pan idea is

"The food stuffin was great," just smile

You know what you are.

I have yet to see this happen.

I’m sure she can always throw it

Your presence will add to the festive

Before the break, I contacted the president of the ASEWU

By James Eik

When an institution asks for such information, the request has to be for a good reason.

As students at Eastern, we are

I have yet to see this happen.

The food stuffin was great," just smile

By Nicole Erickson

After all, the requests for

I have yet to see this happen.

By Nicole Erickson

As students at Eastern, we are

The food stuffin was great," just smile

Your presence will add to the festive

I have yet to see this happen.

The food stuffin was great," just smile

Your presence will add to the festive

I have yet to see this happen.

The food stuffin was great," just smile

Your presence will add to the festive

I have yet to see this happen.

The food stuffin was great," just smile

Your presence will add to the festive

I have yet to see this happen.

The food stuffin was great," just smile

Your presence will add to the festive

I have yet to see this happen.

The food stuffin was great," just smile

Your presence will add to the festive

I have yet to see this happen.

The food stuffin was great," just smile

Your presence will add to the festive

I have yet to see this happen.

The food stuffin was great," just smile

Your presence will add to the festive

I have yet to see this happen.

The food stuffin was great," just smile

Your presence will add to the festive

I have yet to see this happen.

The food stuffin was great," just smile

Your presence will add to the festive

I have yet to see this happen.

The food stuffin was great," just smile

Your presence will add to the festive

I have yet to see this happen.
Students Harry Riley and Jared Munster entertain the Spokane crowd after classes at various locations

“Nightlight” mocks “Twilight”

By Lauren Starnes

Glitzy vampires are given a humorous twist in a story written by the “Harvard Lampoon”

Harvard Lampoon

I’ll only turn on heat of warmers
On my bed and crack open the “Nightlamps”, a humorous fiction fanzine published by the Harvard Lampoon, adds a critical voice toward the new novel “Twilight” by Stephenie Meyer.

The story opens up with a girl named Bette Grown, who writes an essay in the novel Incalculable. One, in her time with Cal. Her dad prevents her with a now on a welcome gift, a U-1 band.

Bette Grown is the main character. She is a high school student and a vampire. She is also a fan of the novel “Twilight”. Bette grows up with a dream of being a vampire and when she turns 18, she realizes her dream.

In the story, Bette is described as an active vampire who enjoys drinking human blood. She is also a frequent attendee of vampire meetings and events. Bette is not like any other vampire. She is kind, caring, and always tries to help those in need. She is also a great friend to her fellow vampires.

Bette’s parents are not around much, so she has to take care of herself. She is also a great student and always gets good grades. She is also a great athlete and is a member of the school’s track team.

However, Bette is not the only vampire in the story. She also has to deal with other vampires who are not as nice as her. Some of them are cruel and mean. Bette has to be careful not to get caught by them.

In the end, Bette is able to get the girl she wants and she is able to go to prom with her. She is also able to help her friends and is able to live a normal life.

Chiropractic - Massage - Therapeutic Exercises

235-2122

1951 First Street

Turtle Beach

Right to left: Jean Brown, Matt Collins and Lawrence Robinson at the launch of the Alumni association’s “Arounded”

Prepare for a heist with “Armed”

Action movie promises thrilling ride for those who can handle the heat

By Lauren Starnes

Many people have had dreams of being a star in a movie. Now the dream is coming true for some students at Eastern Washington University.

The students are working on a movie called “Armed”, which is a thriller set in a small town. The movie is being produced by Eastern Washington University students.

The movie is being produced by Eastern Washington University students and is being directed by a student from the school. The movie is also being produced by a group of students from the university.

The movie is about a group of friends who are planning a heist. They are planning to rob a bank in the city. The friends are determined to pull off the heist and make a lot of money.

However, things do not go as planned. The friends run into some problems and have to make a few changes to their plan. They also have to deal with the police who are trying to stop them.

In the end, the friends are able to pull off the heist and make a lot of money. They are able to escape with their bounty and are able to live a life of luxury.

Chiropractic - Massage - Therapeutic Exercises

235-2122

1951 First Street

Turtle Beach

Right to left: Jean Brown, Matt Collins and Lawrence Robinson at the launch of the Alumni association’s “Arounded”

Prepare for a heist with “Armed”

Action movie promises thrilling ride for those who can handle the heat

By Lauren Starnes

Many people have had dreams of being a star in a movie. Now the dream is coming true for some students at Eastern Washington University.

The students are working on a movie called “Armed”, which is a thriller set in a small town. The movie is being produced by Eastern Washington University students.

The movie is being produced by Eastern Washington University students and is being directed by a student from the school. The movie is also being produced by a group of students from the university.

The movie is about a group of friends who are planning a heist. They are planning to rob a bank in the city. The friends are determined to pull off the heist and make a lot of money.

However, things do not go as planned. The friends run into some problems and have to make a few changes to their plan. They also have to deal with the police who are trying to stop them.

In the end, the friends are able to pull off the heist and make a lot of money. They are able to escape with their bounty and are able to live a life of luxury.

Chiropractic - Massage - Therapeutic Exercises

235-2122

1951 First Street

Turtle Beach

Right to left: Jean Brown, Matt Collins and Lawrence Robinson at the launch of the Alumni association’s “Arounded”

Prepare for a heist with “Armed”

Action movie promises thrilling ride for those who can handle the heat

By Lauren Starnes

Many people have had dreams of being a star in a movie. Now the dream is coming true for some students at Eastern Washington University.

The students are working on a movie called “Armed”, which is a thriller set in a small town. The movie is being produced by Eastern Washington University students.

The movie is being produced by Eastern Washington University students and is being directed by a student from the school. The movie is also being produced by a group of students from the university.

The movie is about a group of friends who are planning a heist. They are planning to rob a bank in the city. The friends are determined to pull off the heist and make a lot of money.

However, things do not go as planned. The friends run into some problems and have to make a few changes to their plan. They also have to deal with the police who are trying to stop them.

In the end, the friends are able to pull off the heist and make a lot of money. They are able to escape with their bounty and are able to live a life of luxury.

Chiropractic - Massage - Therapeutic Exercises

235-2122

1951 First Street

Turtle Beach

Right to left: Jean Brown, Matt Collins and Lawrence Robinson at the launch of the Alumni association’s “Arounded”

Prepare for a heist with “Armed”

Action movie promises thrilling ride for those who can handle the heat

By Lauren Starnes

Many people have had dreams of being a star in a movie. Now the dream is coming true for some students at Eastern Washington University.

The students are working on a movie called “Armed”, which is a thriller set in a small town. The movie is being produced by Eastern Washington University students.

The movie is being produced by Eastern Washington University students and is being directed by a student from the school. The movie is also being produced by a group of students from the university.

The movie is about a group of friends who are planning a heist. They are planning to rob a bank in the city. The friends are determined to pull off the heist and make a lot of money.

However, things do not go as planned. The friends run into some problems and have to make a few changes to their plan. They also have to deal with the police who are trying to stop them.

In the end, the friends are able to pull off the heist and make a lot of money. They are able to escape with their bounty and are able to live a life of luxury.

Chiropractic - Massage - Therapeutic Exercises

235-2122

1951 First Street

Turtle Beach

Right to left: Jean Brown, Matt Collins and Lawrence Robinson at the launch of the Alumni association’s “Arounded”

Prepare for a heist with “Armed”

Action movie promises thrilling ride for those who can handle the heat

By Lauren Starnes

Many people have had dreams of being a star in a movie. Now the dream is coming true for some students at Eastern Washington University.

The students are working on a movie called “Armed”, which is a thriller set in a small town. The movie is being produced by Eastern Washington University students.

The movie is being produced by Eastern Washington University students and is being directed by a student from the school. The movie is also being produced by a group of students from the university.

The movie is about a group of friends who are planning a heist. They are planning to rob a bank in the city. The friends are determined to pull off the heist and make a lot of money.

However, things do not go as planned. The friends run into some problems and have to make a few changes to their plan. They also have to deal with the police who are trying to stop them.

In the end, the friends are able to pull off the heist and make a lot of money. They are able to escape with their bounty and are able to live a life of luxury.
Local resorts offer more than just diverse terrain parks for students who enjoy winter sports

The Easterner Show

- Insightful
- Funny
- Student-driven
- Missing you

Look for a new episode every Saturday, only on easterneronline.com

A day full of jazz

Eastern’s music department is hosting a workshop for high school students from the finest programs in Washington

EWU jazz students worked with the faculty, faculty and students from other programs, that will be beneficial for everyone. Students and faculty will provide judges to high schools with lessons that include three highly-certified instructors and about 25 hours of workshop and instruction. According to Haley Sorbel, director of jazz activities and trombone instructor at EWU: “The high school groups were some of the finest programs in their region and the workshop is a good opportunity for them to gain a lot of information and feedback.”

Serious mountains surround Eastern

Local resorts offer more than just diverse terrain parks for students who enjoy winter sports

Maple Ridge and the workshop is a good opportunity for EWU jazz students to hosting a workshop for high school students to try to make the ski season as much as they can. The workshop is a good opportunity for EWU students to make the ski season as much as they can and become the best they can be. EWU students will be hosting a workshop for high school students to try to make the ski season as much as they can.

Maple Ridge and the workshop is a good opportunity for EWU jazz students to hosting a workshop for high school students to try to make the ski season as much as they can. The workshop is a good opportunity for EWU students to make the ski season as much as they can and become the best they can be. EWU students will be hosting a workshop for high school students to try to make the ski season as much as they can and become the best they can be.
This will be the last Hawk Zone I will write this season, only due to the Seahawks failing miserably this year and not qualifying for the playoffs. Most of you might be upset after the Seahawks missed out on a 10-6 record, but that doesn’t even put them in the top two of the NFC West. Mike Holmgren, probably upset after their demise, would have been more difficult.

This Sunday was the first time that the Seahawks have been to Seattle since 1995, and even if you were there that year, you obviously didn’t attend the game. I arrived in Seattle on Friday night, and little did I know that I was going to experience the season so far. Just as advertised, the game was a back-and-forth affair, with the Seahawks falling just short of tying the game in the last seconds of the game.

Oh, and if you are not aware, I am ailes. I am not only passionate, but also very successful, posting a 1-1-1 record on the season so far. They have played both the Seahawks and the Titans this season.

When asked about how well the players have been performing, Sherk mentioned that injuries have hurt the team more than anything else.

Matt Hasselbeck had another poor performance on the day, completing 15 of 30 passes for 175 yards with one touchdown and one interception. The interception didn’t end up costing them the game, as the Seahawks’ offense was able to come back and win the game in the fourth quarter.

Matt Hasselbeck had another poor performance on the day, completing 15 of 30 passes for 175 yards with one touchdown and one interception. The interception didn’t end up costing them the game, as the Seahawks’ offense was able to come back and win the game in the fourth quarter.

Tight end John Carlson scored a touchdown for the Titans in the second quarter, and the Seahawks’ defense held on to prevent the Titans from scoring again.

The Seahawks lost the game, but there were still some positive things to take away from the loss. The defense played well, and the special teams made some big plays. The Seahawks will need to continue to improve in order to make the playoffs next season.

The EAA is focused on supporting the Eastern athletes, even those who don’t call them “the teams behind the teams.” Hall refers to himself as “very passionate” about the EAA, and he is happy to see the program grow.

In the spring of '09, it held a thousand members. Hall hopes that meeting new members will be a great way to get new people involved in the program, and he is excited about the possibility of recruiting new members.

In the spring of '09, it held a thousand members. Hall hopes that meeting new members will be a great way to get new people involved in the program, and he is excited about the possibility of recruiting new members.

In the spring of '09, it held a thousand members. Hall hopes that meeting new members will be a great way to get new people involved in the program, and he is excited about the possibility of recruiting new members.

In the spring of '09, it held a thousand members. Hall hopes that meeting new members will be a great way to get new people involved in the program, and he is excited about the possibility of recruiting new members.
Larry Weir has spent 19 seasons behind a microphone, calling play-by-play radio broadcasts for Eastern Washington University basketball and football.

Weir sits in the EWU press box at a home football game, where he's covered over 500 games. Photo courtesy of ewu.edu

Weir is entering his 19th year as the voice of the Eastern Eagles that drew back to when he broadcasted his first game for the university in September 1991 at a football game against Eastern Illinois. Weir's career, however, began far before the 1991 football season. Weir, 19, was born in Walla Walla, Wash., and grew up on a wheat farm in Waitsburg, Wash. He was raised amidst a wheat farm with cattle roaming the plains in Waitsburg, Wash. Weir received his education, however, began far before the 1991 football season.

Weir's career and has missed around 20 basketball games due to the overlap of the two schedules with football season ending and the basketball season beginning. Weir still enjoys the travel as it has taken him to places from Walla Walla to Tappanish and stay with his uncle.

“I always thought broadcasting games would be cool and wanted to do it for a living,” said Weir. “I thought I would do it as a hobby and make money on the side. In college, I learned how to do it, and I did that for three years while enrolled in school.”

Weir broadcasted high school football games in Tappanish from 1980-82. His radio career would take off when he made his way to Eastern where he signed a contract with the school to broadcast football and basketball games. During the summers of 1984, 1996, and 1997, Weir also got a little taste of Minor League Baseball during his time with the Yakima Bears.

Weir has brought us the excitement of each game, players and coaches come and go, and he has enjoyed if it weren't for the job.

“Some of the challenges Weir has encountered during his time at Eastern’s radio broadcaster is the travel. During the football season, Weir can be away from home for up to three days for an away game. And during the basketball season, the team and Weir can be gone for up to five days during a road trip. ’It’s been a lot of fun and I’ve been through tough times and long hours. As the economy took a hit, it was tough,” said Weir.

Weir has encountered during his time at Eastern’s radio broadcaster is the travel. During the football season, Weir can be away from home for up to three days for an away game. And during the basketball season, the team and Weir can be gone for up to five days during a road trip. “I’ve seen lots of great cities and towns, and I’m cool and wanted to do it for a living,” said Weir. “It’s been a lot of fun and I’ve been through tough times and long hours. As the economy took a hit, it was tough,” said Weir.

Larry Weir has spent 19 seasons behind a microphone, calling play-by-play radio broadcasts for Eastern Washington University basketball and football.

“Larry Weir has spent 19 seasons behind a microphone, calling play-by-play radio broadcasts for Eastern Washington University basketball and football.

Some of the challenges Weir has encountered during his time at Eastern’s radio broadcaster is the travel. During the football season, Weir can be away from home for up to three days for an away game. And during the basketball season, the team and Weir can be gone for up to five days during a road trip. “I’ve seen lots of great cities and towns, and

If you sense a calling, we’ll help you answer it.

Larry Weir has spent 19 seasons behind a microphone, calling play-by-play radio broadcasts for Eastern Washington University basketball and football.

“I always thought broadcasting games would be cool and wanted to do it for a living,” said Weir. “I thought I would do it as a hobby and make money on the side. In college, I learned how to do it, and I did that for three years while enrolled in school.”

Weir broadcasted high school football games in Tappanish from 1980-82. His radio career would take off when he made his way to Eastern where he signed a contract with the school to broadcast football and basketball games. During the summers of 1984, 1996, and 1997, Weir also got a little taste of Minor League Baseball during his time with the Yakima Bears.

Weir has brought us the excitement of each game, players and coaches come and go, and he has enjoyed if it weren't for the job.

“Some of the challenges Weir has encountered during his time at Eastern’s radio broadcaster is the travel. During the football season, Weir can be away from home for up to three days for an away game. And during the basketball season, the team and Weir can be gone for up to five days during a road trip. “I’ve seen lots of great cities and towns, and I’m cool and wanted to do it for a living,” said Weir. “It’s been a lot of fun and I’ve been through tough times and long hours. As the economy took a hit, it was tough,” said Weir.

Weir has encountered during his time at Eastern’s radio broadcaster is the travel. During the football season, Weir can be away from home for up to three days for an away game. And during the basketball season, the team and Weir can be gone for up to five days during a road trip. “I’ve seen lots of great cities and towns, and I’m cool and wanted to do it for a living,” said Weir. “It’s been a lot of fun and I’ve been through tough times and long hours. As the economy took a hit, it was tough,” said Weir.

Larry Weir has spent 19 seasons behind a microphone, calling play-by-play radio broadcasts for Eastern Washington University basketball and football.

“I always thought broadcasting games would be cool and wanted to do it for a living,” said Weir. “I thought I would do it as a hobby and make money on the side. In college, I learned how to do it, and I did that for three years while enrolled in school.”

Weir broadcasted high school football games in Tappanish from 1980-82. His radio career would take off when he made his way to Eastern where he signed a contract with the school to broadcast football and basketball games. During the summers of 1984, 1996, and 1997, Weir also got a little taste of Minor League Baseball during his time with the Yakima Bears.

Weir has brought us the excitement of each game, players and coaches come and go, and he has enjoyed if it weren't for the job.

“Some of the challenges Weir has encountered during his time at Eastern’s radio broadcaster is the travel. During the football season, Weir can be away from home for up to three days for an away game. And during the basketball season, the team and Weir can be gone for up to five days during a road trip. “I’ve seen lots of great cities and towns, and I’m cool and wanted to do it for a living,” said Weir. “It’s been a lot of fun and I’ve been through tough times and long hours. As the economy took a hit, it was tough,” said Weir.